Trip Overview

Flowing unencumbered from its source high in the mountains of central Idaho to its confluence with the Snake River, the Salmon River offers a unique and exhilarating experience to adventurers. The Salmon is the last major Western river that has not been dammed, which means its pristine environment and ecosystems remain intact. Lonely wilderness is punctuated by huge sandy beaches refreshed each year by spring floods. Salmon, steelhead, trout, smallmouth bass, catfish and sturgeon all thrive in its waters.

Quiet pools glisten between canyon walls only to be interrupted by the thunderous roar of powerful class III and IV rapids. Each of the river's four inner gorges provide stunning scenery as you navigate rapids like Bodacious Bounce, Snowhole, Devil's Slide, Checkerboard and Eye of the Needle. Leaving the last of the inner gorges, Blue Canyon, is a transcendent moment as you float through the confluence of the Salmon and Snake Rivers.

Our Salmon River camps are set on beautiful white sand beaches nestled among the massive canyon walls. Quiet pools provide perfect swimming holes for the kids to cool off on a hot summer day. There is plenty of time to enjoy a game of beach volleyball or to hike among numerous ancient Indian petroglyph sites. Our guides will be hard at work preparing another fine dining experience Northwest Voyageurs style. Lying beneath the glistening Idaho sky, eating fresh baked fudge brownies and roasting marshmallows is the perfect way to end a peaceful and exciting day on the Salmon River.

Difficulty Rating

The Lower Salmon River Canyons adventure is rated EASY, and considered appropriate for any physical ability, including children ages 7 and up. Most physical activities are optional. The trip may require walking on uneven terrain for short distances. Those with ailments such as a bad back or bad knees frequently enjoy these trips.

The Salmon River is a Class III-IV river - mostly Class IIIs with a few Class IVs. It is a big volume, pool and drop river. While most rapids are not technically difficult, they have big waves, big rides and are a lot of fun. Keep in mind that the classification system is not a "fun-meter". It is rather a measurement of how technically difficult the rapids are, and how bad the consequences of a mistake are. We are fortunate that our rapids are huge and fun, but not particularly technically difficult or dangerous.

In the spring (typically May & June), the Salmon River floods and the whitewater can be considerably bigger and less predictable than the summer. Spring high water is often only appropriate for older children and more adventurous adults, or in extreme conditions, we may require participants be at least 18 years old.

Types of Water Craft NWV Offers:

Oar Rafts: In these boats, the guide sits in the middle of the boat with oars and has complete control of the raft. You can paddle if you wish, but paddling is optional at all times. In oar boats, you can sit back, enjoy the scenery and let the guide do all the work if you wish. This is our most relaxing and least participative option.

Paddle-Assist Rafts: In paddle-assist boats, the guide has oars (typically mounted in the back of the boat) but needs paddling help during rapids and occasionally during some of the flat water. This is the most popular boat for people who wish to paddle during their trip.

Paddle Rafts: Our paddle boats have a guide in the back with a paddle (no oars) and the guide steers, but provides no power. Paddling is required the entire day. Due to the nature of our rivers being big volume pool and drop rivers (very different from small volume technical East Coast & California rivers), and the tendency for upstream wind, this option is only appropriate for people who really want to paddle all day long. We have found that most people who request paddle rafts are actually happier in paddle-assist rafts.

Inflatable Kayaks: Thrill-seekers can brave our biggest rapids on their own in one of our single or double "duckies." In smaller rapids and calmer waters, the kayaks are great for anybody (including younger kids) who wants to get a little closer to the action. They do not require experience or knowledge of how to "Eskimo-roll". If you flip the kayak, you fall out and swim, we come rescue you and everyone is happy!

Once you book your trip, we will have you complete a trip questionnaire that will help us plan the right mix of boats for the entire group on your launch date.

Weather

The weather in Idaho in the summer is beautiful! Most summer days are hot and dry, with temperatures ranging from the 80's to occasional 100 or more, with very low humidity. Fortunately we have our rivers to cool off in. The nights are perfect for camping, with clear skies, brilliant stars and pleasant temperatures. We do have the occasional afternoon thunderstorm, but they usually dissipate within an hour or two. Most importantly, our river canyons have no mosquitoes to harass us!

The spring is typically warm as well, but there can be occasional days of chilly weather or rain. The fall is a beautiful time here with mild temperatures in the 60s and 70s. Winter in the immediate area is mild and rarely falls below freezing. Up in the mountains, we receive many feet of snow in the winter that offer great recreation opportunities and help supply our rivers with melt water come springtime.

Detailed Trip Itinerary

Evening before Departure: Whether you stay with us at the Little Salmon Lodge or somewhere else, please feel free to join us the evening before your trip at the Lodge for a pre-trip orientation. At this optional get together, you will meet your guides and fellow rafters, learn how to properly pack your dry bags, and you can ask any last minute trip questions you may have. The pre-trip orientation is typically around 7 p.m.

Day 1: Meet at the Little Salmon Lodge at 7:30 a.m. for an 8:00 a.m. departure. About an hour later, we will arrive at Hammer Creek, the starting point of our river adventure. Each day we will face an abundance of Class III rapids with the occasional Class IV rapid.

We typically arrive at our riverside camp between 4:00 and 5:00. The camp is already set up, which means your only job is to enjoy the surroundings. You can swim, play bocci ball, hike, fish, or just relax in camp. Each evening we prepare a fine gourmet meal in our well-stocked river kitchen. L, D...NWV River Camp

A Typical Day (Days 2-4): After falling asleep under an amazing Idaho starlit sky, you will wake in the morning to the wonderful aroma of gourmet coffee. After a delicious hot breakfast, we are back on the water to experience, learn, relax and enjoy.

These days have the same flow as Day 1, stocked with awesome whitewater, calm swimming pools, interesting history, great food, and great fun. Soon enough, you will start slipping into what we call...river time. No clocks, no cell phones, no computers, just you and all the time in the world.

Our last night camping is usually spent on the Snake River, enjoying one last evening of fine food and company. B, L, D...NWV River Camp

Day 5: We typically arrive back to civilization at 2:00pm, where we quickly load our boats and head back to the Lodge. You can expect to arrive to the Little Salmon Lodge around 6:00 p.m. Most people choose to spend their last night with us at the Little Salmon Lodge. B, L

Why Northwest Voyageurs

Safety: The most important part of any outdoor adventure is safety. Safety comes first and foremost from having experienced, well trained guides who know how to avoid dangerous situations and minimize risk. All outdoor adventures have inherent risks associated with them. Our job as your outfitter is to minimize that risk as much as possible. In 25 years of guiding whitewater trips, we have never had a serious injury. Our safety record is impeccable and speaks for itself.

Exceptional People: When we consider hiring anyone in our company, we want to ensure first and foremost that the person is extraordinary. Maybe we are selfish - we like to surround ourselves with inspiring people! We know we can teach almost anyone the skills to row a boat, or work at our front desk. But we can't teach people to understand people and how to exceed their expectations. This trait is inborn and we search long and hard to find these people.

Experience: Experienced guides bring more to the table than a safe trip. They bring deep knowledge of our rivers and destinations - and they also know how to maximize the fun-factor while minimizing risk. We boast some of the most experienced guides in the industry, as evidenced by a fair amount of white and grey hair in our guide staff. We also boast a very high level of education in our guides and staff in a variety of fields.

Service: Our owners have extremely high expectations of themselves and our staff. We differentiate ourselves on providing an extraordinarily high level of service on our trips and in our lodge. Our goal is to solve your problems and issues before you have them and to smile the entire time. Ultimately, it's our passion for sharing the outdoors with people who may be out of their element that drives us to provide this level of service. It makes your experience that much more rewarding - and makes you want to come back again and again.

Professionalism: While our guides are fun-loving and relaxed, they are also professionals. They've been trained in customer service and are able to handle difficult situations with grace and poise.

Delicious Gourmet Food: One of the elements of our trips that stay with our guests the longest is our amazing food. People are in awe of what we can create in the middle of the wilderness. Dutch-oven cooking, fresh baked desserts, lots of variety, and often a bit too much food! We can also accommodate special dietary requests with advanced notice to ensure your enjoyment of our meals. Our menus vary with seasonal availability but here is an example of what you may enjoy on your journey:

Breakfast: Each morning we offer a wonderful breakfast spread which always has something for everyone. Dishes like made-to-order omelets, fresh fruit pancakes, breakfast sandwich, fresh fruit, yogurt, and only the finest gourmet coffee - we are coffee snobs!

Lunch: New York Style Deli spread, chicken salad, chicken Caesar wraps, and taco salad all with a selection of fresh fruit, veggies and dip, chips and our home baked cookies.

Dinner: Lime-dill salmon or tilapia grilled to perfection with sautéed garlic asparagus, surf & turf with juicy steaks and grilled shrimp with giant Idaho potatoes and all the trimmings, chicken pesto fettuccine, freshly baked breads, fresh green salads are often amongst our dinner menu items.

Dessert: Pineapple upside-down cake, fresh picked blackberry cobbler, fudge brownies, strawberry shortcake or even a birthday cake - all are baked fresh on the river.

What to Bring

Summer Rafting

In July and August, the weather on our rivers in Idaho is typically warm and beautiful, with only a slight chance of precipitation. Average highs are in the 90s and average lows in the high 50s to 60s. We do have a week or two that can be considerably hotter, with daytime highs exceeding 100F.

In normal summer conditions, we recommend quick dry shorts or bathing suits, cotton t-shirts, a long sleeve cotton shirt and long light weight pants for sun protection, hat and sunglasses for sun protection. IMPORTANT: Cotton clothing IS RECOMMENDED for very hot weather and it stays wet and helps cool your body temperature. However, cotton is not recommended for cooler weather, so you should bring some non-cotton layers even in the summer to be prepared for cooler weather. Our detailed packing list includes gear for rare cool summer weather. Even though we hope to never use it, it is very important to bring it along.

In the raft and kayak, you should wear shoes that will not fall off your feet and that you don't mind getting and staying wet. River sandals with heel straps (for instance Teva or Chaco sandals) are ideal, as are water shoes like those made by Keen. Tennis shoes work, but will get wet and tend to stay wet throughout the day.

Lastly, when in camp, you will want to have dry shoes to change into. Some people prefer tennis shoes, some sandals. During camp, we will have opportunity to do some short hikes. Tennis shoes or sandals are typically fine for our short hikes, but some people may prefer to bring light weight hiking shoes or boots for longer hikes.

Spring and Fall Rafting (April, May, June, September, October)

If you have decided to join us in the spring or fall for cooler weather, please pay special attention to the packing list for those seasons. The water and air temperatures are cooler and the chances of rain are higher. As we mentioned above, even though we hope we never have to use the bad weather gear, it is important that you bring it along, just in case.

During cooler weather, it is always appropriate to wear quick dry, non-cotton clothing to keep you warm even when you are wet. The well known saying “COTTON KILLS” applies to all of our spring and fall trips. Synthetic fabrics such as polypropylene, capilene, and polyester fleece dry quickly and keep you warm when wet. Wool is a good and less expensive option however it tends to dry more slowly and is less comfortable.

When planning your clothing for cool weather rafting, think layers. The first layer is often your long underwear, which provides warmth and wicks away moisture. Again, the newer synthetic fabrics are an excellent choice. The middle layer is often a fleece, heavier or lighter weight depending upon the expected weather conditions. The outer layer is typically a water proof or resistant layer. Since most of our body’s heat loss is through the top of our head, we highly recommend wearing a synthetic or wool hat.

If the weather and water temperatures call for wetsuits, Northwest Voyageurs will provide them. We offer a “farmer John” style wet suit (one piece, long pants, sleeveless front zipper).

How to Pack

We supply each person with one large overnight bag. For items you may need during the day, we supply one medium sized bag for two people to share. Your overnight bag has plenty of room for your sleeping bag and one good sized duffle bag for your personal items. (Note, you can not typically fit suitcases in this bag.) This bag should be packed knowing that you will not have access to it until you arrive at that evening’s camp.

Your second bag is a day bag which you will have access to during the day. This smaller bag is typically shared with one other person and is large enough to hold things you will need access to during the day such as a camera, sun screen, warm fleece or rain jacket etc.

We use water tight NRS Dry Bags. When packed and sealed correctly, these bags will stay dry under most conditions. Our guides will help you to ensure they are sealed well. To fully protect your gear, particularly items that can’t get wet such as cameras, medications etc., you may want to bring along several zip lock bags for double protection. If you plan to bring an expensive camera, we recommend purchasing a dry box such as a pelican case. See Detailed Packing List on last page of this packet.

Fishing

The Salmon River features excellent fishing opportunities beginning in July. Opportunities are available to fish from the bank during lunch and in camp. You can often fish from oar boats during the day. You will need to bring your own fishing tackle and obtain a valid Idaho fishing license.

Fly fishing recommended gear:

- 5-6 weight fly rod
- 5-6 weight floating line w/ medium to fast sinking tip-Bass flies: Varies. Try purple, green and white poppers. Streamer patterns.
- Trout flies: Caddis patterns, midges.

Spinning Gear recommended:

- Average sized trout rod with light tackle, or ultralight rod
- 2-4 pound test line
- Lures: Spinners, meps, spoons, jigs

Northwest Voyageurs can provide rental spin fishing equipment, including a supply of lures, for $25 per rod per day. Rental equipment is in limited supply and must be reserved in advance.

Your daily itinerary is customized so that each day you can enjoy activities that interest you. This extension includes all lodging and meals, including non-alcoholic beverages, and your choice of guided activities each day.

The Multi-Sport Adventure is rated EASY to CHALLENGING (we tailor the activity level to your ability and desire) and is appropriate for ages 7 and up. Choose from the following daily activities:

Whitewater Rafting

Rafting on the Salmon River is one of the principle reasons people visit Idaho. Up to three days of rafting different sections of the Salmon are available, including the possibility of an overnight trip with one night of camping on a beautiful white-sand beach. The rapids are Class III and are appropriate for children ages 7 and up, and for both beginners and experienced rafters.

Horseback Riding

Our one-day horseback ride is on top of the Salmon River canyon, with spectacular views of the Seven Devils Wilderness Area, Gospel Hump Wilderness Area and the Salmon River canyon. The trail ride on experienced dude stock is fun and challenging, but is still appropriate for beginners and children ages 8 and up.

Hiking

Hiking trips of various lengths and difficulty are available in the Seven Devils Wilderness Area and along Rapid River in the Nez Perce National Forest. You can enjoy short hikes to scenic overlooks, or a challenging all-day hike along steep terrain. All hikes offer beautiful scenery and guides who will lead the hike at your pace.

Kayaking & Canoeing

If you have an adventurous spirit, you can spend the day on the Salmon River in your own boat. Our inflatable kayaks do not require any experience, and you will follow a guide through each rapid. A safety raft travels with the group in case kayakers get tired or need to be rescued after a swim. Or perhaps try canoeing along a scenic river amidst high alpine meadows with a chance to spot moose, eagles, and osprey.

Mountain Biking

Mountain bike rides of varying lengths and difficulty are available to accommodate children, beginners and advanced bikers. Inexperienced riders can ride rolling Forest Service roads and enjoy beautiful scenery and a relaxing ride. More aggressive bikers can ride some of our single-track trails or embark on a 5,000-foot descent down “Cannonball Run” from the top of the Salmon River canyon to the rim.

Fishing

The fishing in Idaho is excellent. We fish with light tackle for smallmouth bass and trout. You can use spinning rods or fly rods, and instruction is available for beginners. A variety of fishing experiences are available, and some require a small surcharge, depending on the number of participants and the method of fishing.

Golf

Play a round of golf at Meadow Creek Golf Resort and enjoy some of the most spectacular mountain scenery you have ever seen from the putting surface. Meadow Creek offers a challenging golf experience that rewards accuracy and a good short game. Avid golfers may play as many rounds as they like. Golf is also available at the McCall golf course, featuring 27 holes of tree-lined fairways and beautiful mountain views.

Sightseeing

Enjoy a relaxing day of scenic drives and explore McCall, a small local resort town which features good shopping and several spas offering massage and other treatments. We can also visit Burgdorff Hot Springs, a remote natural hot springs that was formerly a busy hotel and "resort" during the gold mining days.
